Interviewing was carried out during the exceptional circumstances of the COVID-19 outbreak. The survey findings for the third quarter of 2021 are likely to reflect the impact of the global health emergency, and may be notably different to previous quarters.

Czech employers report conservative hiring plans for the July to September period. With 11% of employers forecasting an increase in payrolls, 4% expecting a decrease and 83% anticipating no change, the resulting Net Employment Outlook is +7%.

Once the data is adjusted to allow for seasonal variation, the Outlook stands at +4%. Hiring intentions weakened by 3 percentage points in comparison with the prior quarter, but improve by 11 percentage points when compared with this time one year ago, when the COVID-19 pandemic first had an impact on hiring intentions.

Throughout this report, we use the term “Net Employment Outlook.” This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating total employment to increase and subtracting from this the percentage expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook.

From this point forward, all data discussed in the commentary is seasonally adjusted, unless stated otherwise.

Organisation-Size Comparisons

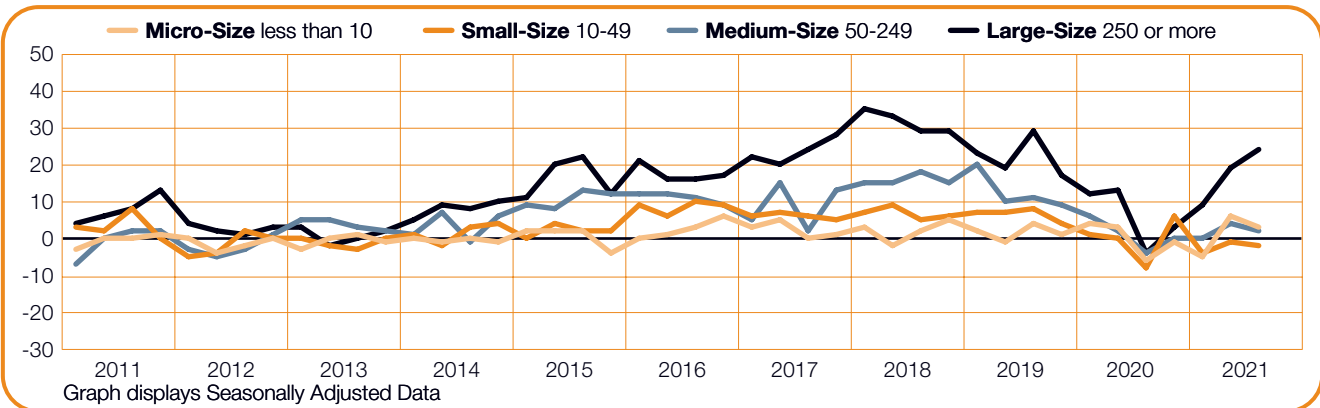

Participating employers are categorized into one of four organization sizes: Micro businesses have less than 10 employees; Small businesses have 10–49 employees; Medium businesses have 50–249 employees; and Large businesses have 250 or more employees.

Employers in three of the four organization size categories expect to grow payrolls during the upcoming quarter. Large employers forecast healthy job gains with a Net Employment Outlook of +24%, while Outlooks stand at +3% and +2% for Micro- and Medium-size firms, respectively. However, Small employers expect to trim payrolls, reporting an Outlook of -2%.

When compared with the second quarter of 2021, hiring plans decline by 3 percentage points for Micro employers and are 2 percentage points weaker in the Medium-size category. Elsewhere, the Outlook for Small employers remains relatively stable, while Large employers report an improvement of 5 percentage points.

When compared with this time last year – when the COVID-19 pandemic first had an impact on hiring sentiment – Outlooks strengthen in all four organization size categories, most notably by 28 percentage points for Large employers. Elsewhere, the Outlook for Micro firms is 9 percentage points stronger, while increases of 6 percentage points are reported in both the Small- and Medium-size categories.

Organisation-Size	Increase	Decrease	No Change	Don't Know	Net Employment Outlook	Seasonally Adjusted
Micro-Size less than 10	6	2	89	3	4	3
Small-Size 10-49	7	6	85	2	1	-2
Medium-Size 50-249	8	6	85	1	2	2
Large-Size 250 or more	27	1	72	0	26	24

Regional Comparisons

Workforce gains are expected in all three regions during the next three months. The strongest hiring pace is forecast by Prague employers with a Net Employment Outlook of +7%, while Outlooks stand at +6% and +5% in Moravia and Bohemia, respectively.

Hiring prospects weaken by 2 percentage points in Moravia when compared with the previous quarter. Meanwhile, hiring plans remain relatively stable in both Prague and Bohemia.

When compared with the same period last year – when the COVID-19 pandemic first had an impact on employer sentiment – Outlooks strengthen in all three regions, most notably by 24 percentage points in Prague. In both Bohemia and Moravia, employers report improvements of 7 percentage points.

Bohemia

Job seekers can expect a mild hiring climate in the third quarter of 2021, according to employers who report a Net Employment Outlook of +5%. The Outlook remains relatively stable when compared with the previous quarter and improves by 7 percentage points in comparison with this time one year ago.

+9 (+6)%

Moravia

Employers anticipate some hiring opportunities in the July to September period, reporting a Net Employment Outlook of +6%. While hiring prospects are 2 percentage points weaker quarter-over-quarter, employers report an improvement of 7 percentage points when compared with 3Q 2020.

+9 (+7)%

Prague

With a Net Employment Outlook of +7%, employers expect a modest increase in payrolls during the coming quarter. Hiring plans remain relatively stable quarter-over-quarter, while improving by 24 percentage points in comparison with the third quarter of 2020.

Sector Comparisons

Employers in five of the seven industry sectors expect to increase payrolls during the third quarter of 2021. The strongest hiring prospects are reported in the Manufacturing sector, where the Net Employment Outlook stands at +15%. Construction sector employers report positive hiring intentions with an Outlook of +13%, while the Finance & Business Services sector Outlook is +6%. Modest workforce gains are also anticipated in the Other Services sector and the Wholesale & Retail Trade sector, where Outlooks are +5% and +4%, respectively. However, a flat labor market is expected in the Restaurants & Hotels sector with an Outlook of 0%, while Other Production sector employers report an uncertain Outlook of -1%.

Hiring sentiment weakens in four of the seven industry sectors when compared with the previous quarter. The Other Services sector Outlook declines by 5 percentage points, while decreases of 4 percentage points are reported in two sectors – the Construction sector and the Finance & Business Services sector.

Meanwhile, hiring prospects remain relatively stable in both the Manufacturing sector and the Other Production sector, while Restaurants & Hotels sector employers report an improvement of 7 percentage points.

When compared with this time one year ago – the first quarter in which COVID-19 had an impact on hiring prospects – Outlooks strengthen in six of the seven industry sectors. A sharp increase of 28 percentage points is reported in the Restaurants & Hotels sector, while Manufacturing sector employers report an improvement of 19 percentage points. In both the Construction sector and the Finance & Business Services sector, hiring sentiment strengthens by 14 percentage points, while the Outlook for the Other Services sector is 11 percentage points stronger. However, Other Production sector employers report no change.

Reporting a Net Employment Outlook of +5%, employers anticipate modest payroll gains in the July to September period. The Outlook is 5 percentage points weaker quarter-over-quarter, but improves by 11 percentage points when compared with this time one year ago.

Restaurants & Hotels

Flat hiring activity is forecast for the next three months, with employers reporting a Net Employment Outlook of 0%. Hiring sentiment improves by 7 percentage points when compared with the previous quarter and is 28 percentage points stronger in a comparison with 3Q 2020.

+5 (+4)%

Wholesale & Retail Trade

Employers expect the soft labor market to continue in 3Q 2021, reporting a Net Employment Outlook of +4% for the second consecutive quarter. When compared with the same period in 2020, hiring intentions are 7 percentage points stronger.

Global Employment Outlook

ManpowerGroup interviewed over 45,000 employers in 43 countries and territories on hiring prospects* in the third quarter of 2021. All participants were asked, “How do you anticipate total employment at your location to change in the three months to the end of September 2021 as compared to the current quarter?” Interviewing was carried out during the exceptional circumstances of the COVID-19 outbreak. The survey findings for the third quarter of 2021 reflect the impact of the global health emergency, and the ongoing economic restrictions in many countries.

Employers anticipate payroll gains in 42 of the 43 countries and territories surveyed by ManpowerGroup for the July to September period, while flat hiring activity is expected in one.

In a comparison with the second quarter of 2021, employers report stronger hiring plans in 31 of the 43 countries and territories, while Outlooks weaken in eight, with no change reported in four. When compared with this time one year ago – when COVID-19 first had an impact on hiring sentiment – employers in 42 of the 43 countries and territories report improved hiring prospects, with no change in one. In the coming quarter, the strongest labor markets are forecast in the U.S., Taiwan, Australia, Greece, Ireland and Singapore, while the weakest hiring intentions are reported in Hong Kong, Argentina, Panama and South Africa.

Employers in all 26 Europe, Middle East & Africa (EMEA) region countries expect to add to payrolls during the upcoming quarter. When compared with the prior quarter, Outlooks strengthen in 22 EMEA countries, while weakening in two. In a comparison with the same period last year, hiring plans strengthen in all 26 EMEA countries. The strongest hiring activity is expected in Greece, Ireland, and Croatia, while employers in South Africa, the Czech Republic and Spain forecast the weakest hiring pace.

Workforce gains are anticipated in six of the seven Asia Pacific countries and territories during the July to September period, while flat hiring prospects are reported in the seventh – Hong Kong. In a comparison with the previous quarter, Outlooks improve in three countries and territories, but also weaken in three. Hiring sentiment strengthens in six Asia Pacific countries and territories when compared with this time one year ago, while remaining unchanged in one. The strongest hiring plans for the next three months are reported in Taiwan and Australia, while the weakest labor market is expected in Hong Kong.

In the Americas region, employers in all 10 countries surveyed expect to grow payrolls during the third quarter of 2021. Hiring intentions strengthen in six Americas countries when compared with the previous quarter, but weaken in three. In a comparison with last year at this time, employers report stronger hiring prospects in all 10 countries. The strongest hiring pace is anticipated in the U.S., while cautiously optimistic hiring plans are reported in Costa Rica, Guatemala and Mexico. The weakest labor markets are anticipated in Argentina and Panama.

International Comparisons – Americas

ManpowerGroup interviewed more than 17,000 employers in 10 countries across North, Central and South America about hiring prospects for the third quarter of 2021. In all 10 countries, employers expect workforce gains during the upcoming quarter.

The labor market in the U.S. is expected to be the strongest of all 43 countries in the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey over the next three months. U.S. employers report their strongest hiring intentions in 21 years, with solid workforce growth anticipated in all four regions. Workforce gains are expected in all 12 industry sectors, most notably in the Leisure & Hospitality and Education & Health Services sectors, with their strongest Outlooks since they were first analyzed in 2009, and in the Wholesale & Retail Trade sector, where the Outlook matches the strongest since the survey started in 1982.

Canada's employers expect the fair hiring climate to continue in the third quarter of 2021, reporting no change over the previous quarter. With payrolls expected to grow in all 10 industry sectors, the strongest third quarter hiring activity is forecast for the Public Administration and Durable Goods Manufacturing sectors.

Employers report encouraging signs for job seekers in Mexico during the July to September period, with a slight uptick in hiring prospects when compared with the prior quarter. Employers in all seven Mexican industry sectors expect to grow payrolls, including the Manufacturing sector where the Outlook is the strongest reported in two years.

In Central America, hiring sentiment among Costa Rican employers has recovered following the pandemic, and now stands at a three-year high, driven in part by strengthening labor markets in the Transport & Communication and Manufacturing sectors. Panamanian employers report their first positive hiring intentions since the final quarter of 2019, in part fueled by the strongest Services sector Outlook in three years. Employers in Guatemala report cautiously optimistic hiring plans for the July to September period, with the strongest Outlook in more than three years forecast for the Manufacturing sector.

The strongest labor market in South America is anticipated in Brazil, although hiring plans for the country remain modest. Reflecting the impact of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, employers in the Manufacturing, Construction, Services and Wholesale & Retail sectors all report weaker hiring prospects when compared with the prior quarter.

Hiring sentiment in Argentina remains cautious for the third quarter of 2021, with employers anticipating limited job gains. Employers in the Services and Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sectors expect to trim payrolls, but hiring plans are more positive for the Agriculture & Fishing sector, where the Outlook is the strongest in four years.

Colombian employers expect the mild hiring pace to continue in the forthcoming quarter, reporting a relatively stable Outlook. While hiring in the Manufacturing sector continues to be soft, Mining sector employers report their strongest hiring plans in two years and forecasts strengthen for the Agriculture & Fishing and Wholesale & Retail Trade sectors.

In Peru, employers report limited hiring activity for the next three months, with the Construction sector Outlook remaining weak for a second consecutive quarter. However, employers in the Mining sector report considerably improved hiring prospects.

International Comparisons – Asia Pacific

More than 10,000 employers in the seven Asia Pacific countries and territories took part in the ManpowerGroup survey on hiring prospects for the July to September time frame. Employers in six of the seven countries and territories expect to add to payrolls during the next three months, while a flat labor market is expected in one.

The Chinese labor market is forecast to make a strong recovery from the impact of the pandemic during the coming quarter, with employers reporting the strongest hiring intentions in six years. Workforce gains are expected in all six Chinese industry sectors, with the strongest hiring sentiment reported in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate, Services, Manufacturing and the Wholesale & Retail Trade sectors – Outlooks for these four sectors are also the strongest reported in at least six years.

For the fourth consecutive quarter, the strongest hiring climate in the Asia Pacific region is expected in Taiwan, fueled in part by bright hiring plans for the Mining & Construction sector and a brisk hiring pace in the Manufacturing sector, where the Outlook for the coming quarter is the strongest in six years.

However, Hong Kong employers expect the subdued labor market to continue during the next three months, forecasting flat hiring activity overall, although limited payroll growth is expected in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate and Services sectors.

In India, employers expect a modest increase in payrolls during the upcoming quarter, although hiring sentiment is slightly weaker when compared with the prior quarter, reflecting the ongoing impact of COVID-19 in the country. While the Manufacturing sector labor market continues to be relatively stable, the Services sector is slightly weaker when compared to the prior quarter and the Outlook in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector is the weakest since the survey began in 2005.

The upbeat hiring pace in Australia is expected to continue during the July to September period. The strongest hiring prospects in 10 years are reported by employers in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector while the Services sector forecast improves sharply year-over-year. Elsewhere, the Mining & Construction sector is the strongest in more than two years following four consecutive quarters of improvement.

Steady payroll growth is anticipated in Singapore for a third consecutive quarter, driven in part by an active labor market in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector where employers report the strongest Outlook in more than six years and a steep increase year-over-year in the Services sector, while the Manufacturing sector forecast is the strongest in nine years.

Job seekers in Japan can expect a fair hiring pace in the next three months, according to employers who report a moderate increase in hiring prospects when compared with the previous quarter. Hiring sentiment strengthens in all seven Japanese industry sectors when compared with three months ago, most notably in the Manufacturing, Wholesale & Retail Trade and Services sectors.

International Comparisons – EMEA

Employers in more than 17,700 businesses were surveyed in the Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region on hiring intentions for the third quarter of 2021, as part of the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey. Employers in all 26 EMEA countries surveyed anticipate payroll gains during the next three months.

An increase in payrolls is anticipated for all three of the largest Eurozone economies during the July to September period, with hiring sentiment strengthening both quarter-over-quarter and year-over-year. German employers expect a return to pre-COVID-19 levels of hiring in the upcoming quarter, driven in part by favorable hiring plans in the Finance & Business Services sector while employers in the Manufacturing sector report their strongest hiring intentions in two years.

French employers report encouraging signs for job seekers in the coming quarter, anticipating an increase in payrolls across all industry sectors and regions. A steady hiring pace is forecast by Finance & Business Services and Wholesale & Retail Trade sector employers while in the Restaurant & Hotels sector employers are cautiously optimistic for the quarter ahead. Hiring sentiment in Italy returns to the level seen before the pandemic, fueled in part by the strongest Construction sector hiring prospects since the survey began in 2003 and an upbeat hiring pace in the Wholesale & Retail sector. However, Restaurants & Hotels sector employers continue to trim payrolls, for the fifth consecutive quarter.

In the UK, employers report their strongest hiring plans since 2015, with payrolls expected to grow in eight of nine sectors and 11 of 12 regions during the upcoming quarter. Encouraging signs are reported by employers in the Finance & Business Services and Hotels & Retail sectors, while the Outlook for the Community & Social sector is the strongest in five years.

The Outlook for Spain continues to improve quarter-over-quarter as it recovers from the impact of the pandemic. The improvement is driven in part by favorable hiring plans for the Other Services sector and cautious optimism in the Finance & Business Services sector, although the slump in the Restaurants & Hotels sector is expected to continue.

Hiring sentiment in Belgium returns to pre-pandemic levels for the coming quarter with considerable year-over-year improvements in all seven industry sectors and steady hiring plans in the Finance & Business Services and Other Services sectors. Employers in the Manufacturing and Other Production sectors anticipate their strongest hiring climate since 2009. In the Netherlands, employers report a cautiously optimistic Outlook as the recovery from the pandemic continues, with job gains expected in all seven industry sectors, most notably for the Finance & Business Services and Other Services sectors.

In Norway, employers anticipate respectable workforce gains during the July to September period, with hiring prospects for the Finance & Business Services sector at their strongest in more than eight years and an upbeat forecast in the Other Production sector. However, hiring sentiment in the Restaurants & Hotels sector remains gloomy. The Outlook for Sweden is the strongest reported in two years, reflecting a healthy hiring pace in the Finance & Business Services sector and positive hiring plans for the Wholesale & Retail Trade sector.

The Polish labor market is expected to hold steady in the third quarter of 2021, with payroll gains anticipated in six of seven industry sectors. Hiring activity will likely be strongest in the Construction and Manufacturing sectors, while Restaurants & Hotels sector employers expect the strongest hiring pace in three years.

The strongest hiring prospects across the EMEA region as a whole are reported in Greece and Ireland. Greek employers anticipate an upbeat hiring climate in the next three months, based on solid hiring plans for the Construction, Finance & Business Services and Manufacturing sectors. In Ireland, hiring prospects are the strongest reported since 2007, buoyed in part by a brisk hiring pace in the Construction and Pharmaceuticals sectors.

About the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted quarterly to measure employers' intentions to increase or decrease the number of employees in their workforces during the next quarter. ManpowerGroup's comprehensive forecast of employer hiring plans has been running for more than 55 years and is one of the most trusted surveys of employment activity in the world. Various factors underpin the success of the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey:

Unique: It is unparalleled in its size, scope, longevity and area of focus.

Projective: The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is the most extensive, forward-looking employment survey in the world, asking employers to forecast employment over the next quarter. In contrast, other surveys and studies focus on retrospective data to report on what occurred in the past.

Independent: The survey is conducted with a representative sample of employers from throughout the countries and territories in which it is conducted. The survey participants are not derived from ManpowerGroup's customer base.

Robust: For Quarter 3 2021, sample sizes are smaller than other quarters, reflecting the impact of the global health emergency so total number of interviews is significantly lower than normal in some countries. The survey is based on interviews with over 45,000 public and private employers across 43 countries and territories to measure anticipated employment trends each quarter. This sample allows for analysis to be performed across specific sectors and regions to provide more detailed information.

Focused: For more than five decades the survey has derived all of its information from a single question:

For the Quarter 3 2021 research, all employers participating in the survey worldwide are asked the same question, "How do you anticipate total employment at your location to change in the three months to the end of September 2021 as compared to the current quarter?"

Methodology

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted using a validated methodology, in accordance with the highest standards in market research. The survey has been structured to be representative of each national economy. The margin of error for almost all national, regional and global data is not greater than +/- 5%.

Throughout this report, we use the term "Net Employment Outlook." This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating an increase in hiring activity and subtracting from this the percentage of employers expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook. Net Employment Outlooks for countries and territories that have accumulated at least 17 quarters of data are reported in a seasonally adjusted format unless otherwise stated.

Seasonal adjustments have been applied to the data for all participating countries except Croatia. ManpowerGroup intends to add seasonal adjustments to the data for Croatia in the future, as more historical data is compiled.
